Not
IncludedRead the beginning of an article about New Year traditions in different cultures.*Then answer the questions below.

There are many different customs connected with the New Year, varying from country to country, or from culture to culture.

For Chinese people all over the world, New Year is the most important event in the calendar. It begins on the first day of the month, which has the darkest night, and continues till the full moon 15 days later. There are many traditions, most of them involving the colour red. During the celebrations, people wear red clothes and children are given red envelopes containing 'lucky money'. Red is the symbol of fire, which is believed to drive away bad luck. This also explains the popularity of fireworks, which are supposed to frighten away bad spirits with their combination of noise, fire and brightness.

New Year is a time for families to get together and people often travel long distances to be with their families. Food also plays an important part, especially the big family meal on the evening before the New Year begins (New Year's Eve).

A. Answer the following questions:

1. When does the New Year in China begin? When does it end?

2. How long does the celebration of the New Year keep going in China?

3. How do the Chinese celebrate the New Year?

4. How do the fireworks frighten away bad spirits according to the Chinese culture?

5. How is the New Year considered as a family time?

B. Complete the following sentences from the text above:

1. Red colour is a symbol of _____

2. Chinese people use red colour in their celebrations to _____

3. Fireworks qualities are such _____, _____ and _____

C. Say what these pronouns refer to:

1. them (line 5) : _____

2. their (line 9) : _____

3. their (line 12) : _____

D. Put T or F:

1. Each culture has various customs of the New Year. ()

2. Chinese customs of the New Year are existed only in China. ()

3. The customs connected with the New Year is the same all over the world. ()

4. The New Year is a time for families to join together. ()

E. Answer the following questions

'Red is the symbol of fire.' What do you think a symbol is?

A symbol means: _____

a- a small piece of something larger.

b- something that stands for an idea.

c- a thing which is the same as something else.

علميRead the following article, then complete the tasks below.

A lot of the New Year 'traditions' in countries like England, Australia and the USA are actually Scottish in origin. These include joining hands and singing the Scottish song Auld Lang Syne (which means something like 'for the old times').

Another custom, which is less popular now, is 'first-footing'. To bring good luck to a house, the first person to visit it (entering by the front door and leaving by the back door) should be a tall, dark-haired man carrying a piece of coal for the fire, some salt, some bread and something to drink. These symbolise warmth, flavour and of course food. More generally, it is usual, as in China, to clean the whole house on the day before New Year, and to make sure you have paid back any money you owe to others before midnight.

Like other Muslim countries, Egypt uses the Islamic calendar and the New Year marks the migration (Hijra) of Prophet Mohammad (صلى الله عليه وسلم) from Mecca to Medina. The New Hijra Year can't begin until the appearance of the new moon of Muharram is officially announced. Although modern technology now makes it possible to find this out well in advance, the new year moon should be observed with the naked eye.

New Year is widely celebrated with visits to family and friends. In many different parts of the country, special religious chanting troupes organise performances in praise of Prophet Mohammad (صلى الله عليه وسلم) and in commemoration of his Hijra. For many, though, this period is a time for prayer and quiet thought, concentrating on what you have done wrong in the past year and how you need to change in the next.

Whatever culture you look at, there seems to be one idea that underlies many of the New Year customs: the idea of a new beginning, of leaving one period behind and looking forward to the coming one.

A. Decide whether each of the following is True or False:

- a. The traditions of The New Year in the USA come from Scottish customs. ()
- b. New Hijra Year is officially announced after seeing the moon of Muharram using a telescope. ()
- c. " First- footing " is a widely used custom in The New Year celebration. ()

B. Complete the following table about Ways of celebrating The New Year:

China	a. _____ b. _____
Egypt	a. _____ b. _____

C. Write what each of the following symbolizes:

1. coal and fire: _____ 2. salt: _____
3. bread and drink: _____

A. Answer the following questions:

1. Where are the Scottish New Year traditions popular?

2. How should the first-footing person look like?

3. What is the mark of New Year in Islamic countries?

4. How do Muslims celebrate New Year?

5. What does a New Year mean for many people?

Reading and Comprehension (U1-P3-P9)

Read the newspaper article to answer the following questions:Not Included

It seems that people in the UK are turning away from traditional New Year's resolutions, like giving up smoking, in favour of more modern ones. A website has just published a list of the top resolutions for this year, showing that giving up smoking has dropped from first place to eighth.

Health-based resolutions like getting more exercise (second place) and eating more healthily (third place) remain popular, but the top choice, spending less money, probably says a lot about the economic situation. This year's fifth most popular resolution, wasting less time on social media sites like Facebook, also reflects modern times.

Instead, people are resolving to spend more time with family and friends (sixth place), and to improve themselves by reading more (fourth place) or learning a language or musical instrument (seventh and ninth). Trying to find a better job just makes it into the top ten.

The website's director said that people were moving away from negative decisions like stopping bad habits towards more positive ones. 'They want to change their lives by doing something new,' he said, 'and there's a definite feeling that this kind of resolution has a better chance of success.'

A. Answer the following questions:

1. What does the website show ?

2. Why do you think 'spending less money' has become the most popular resolution?

3. According to the text, why do fewer people than before choose to stop smoking?

4. Of the top ten resolutions, which one would improve your life most? How?

5. What is the top choice of the resolutions ?

B. Complete the following sentences from the text:

1. People prefer modern New Year's resolutions over _____
2. Examples of health-based resolutions are _____ and _____

Reading and Comprehension (U1-P4-P11)

8 / 2017

Read the rest of the article. Then answer the questions below:

1. _____ When you're thinking about aims, there's one rule you should follow above all others: don't be too general. Just thinking that you 'want to be a bit healthier' is very unlikely to get you anywhere. Instead, you need to express your aim as something exact and practical that can be measured.
2. _____ Don't spend all your time worrying about how successful you're going to be. Remember to enjoy the new experience for what it is. That way there's a far better chance that you'll keep going. If you're learning something, you'll make much better progress if you enjoy the learning rather than thinking about what score you might get at the end.
3. _____ Including other people can have various benefits. Firstly, the more people you tell about what you're doing, the less likely you are to give up, simply because you don't want to have to admit it to them. Secondly, if you do something with other people, it will be more fun (see above) and you won't want to let them down.
4. _____ Yes, you did read that correctly. Of course, the usual advice is to stay positive. But there will almost certainly be a time when everything seems to be going wrong and you start thinking it's all too hard. Studies show that it's better to think about what could go wrong so that you can have a plan in place when it happens.
5. _____ Don't try to do everything at once. Divide your final aim into smaller parts so that getting to the end of each part is one small success, and one step nearer to the goal.

A. Put the titles below in the correct position.

- a. One step at a time b. Share it c. Enjoy yourself
d. Set clear goals e. Think negative

B. Choose the correct answer

1. The main idea of the text _____
a. explains more about New Year resolution.
b. gives some helpful advice to readers.

Reading and Comprehension (U4-P2-P58/59)

Year	Question
8 / 2018	Read the following text, then answer the questions below: From cowries to contactless: a short history of money 1. _____: On its own, money has little or no meaning. It only gains meaning when a group of people all accept that it has a certain value when used for the exchange of goods or services. To understand this, we need to look at what happened before money was invented. 2. _____: In early societies, trade was carried out by bartering: the exchange of one thing or service for another. If one person had a bag of salt and another was good at making shoes, they could agree to exchange the salt for a pair of shoes. But this only worked on two conditions. Firstly, they each had to want what the other person was offering, and secondly they had to agree that the two things were of equal value. 3. _____: To solve this problem, people started to base their trade on items that nearly everyone wanted, like salt, chocolate or cows. It didn't have to be something that they needed, just something desirable. Cowrie shells are a well-known example of this, and a step towards what we recognise as money, because they are easier to carry around than cows or bags of salt. 4. _____: The Lydians, who lived in what is now Turkey, are thought to be the first people to use coins, over 2,500 years ago, although pieces of metal had been used for centuries before. Other countries soon followed, making their own coins with agreed values. The earliest paper money was probably in common use in China around the year 960. 5. _____: In this form, money itself doesn't need to be made of something valuable; it is only important because of what it represents, or stands for. This is why it is known as representative money. Until quite recently, for example, the British pound (£) was based on a promise that the bank would exchange it for one pound in weight (lb) of silver. 6 _____: Nowadays, methods of exchange are moving away from real coins and notes that need to be carried around. First, there were cheques, which have now been more or less replaced by plastic credit or debit cards. More recent developments have moved even further in this direction. One example is 'contactless' bracelets that you wear on your wrist and pass in front of a machine. Another is the growing popularity of 'bitcoins', a digital currency that can only be used on the Internet.

A. Choose the best title for each paragraph:

- a. Towards unreality
b. Before money

Question

6 / 2020
6 / 2016Read the following text. Then answer the questions below:

Generally speaking, rich people aren't happier than poor people. Admittedly, this may seem to be a controversial statement to some, but there is enough evidence to be able to state this as a fact. Developments in biology and psychology now allow us to measure happiness more accurately than ever before, and the results are clear. Levels of stress and depression in the richer countries are rising, with people reporting less, not more, satisfaction with their lives.

A recent study in the UK shows that overall happiness peaked in the mid-1970s and has been declining ever since. The researchers reached the conclusion that over a certain level (about £20,000 per person), 'extra income is not associated with increased happiness'. Put simply, once basic human needs have been met, there is simply no point in getting richer.

It seems that a lot of people have forgotten something that nearly everyone used to think was obvious: Money and happiness are not the same thing. I hesitate to write this, because someone will say that I am romanticising poverty. I am not. But I have lived in poor countries, and it was impossible not to notice that people there smile and laugh more, socialise more easily and complain less than people in the richer nations.

Obviously, I am not saying that poverty causes happiness, but there does seem to be a lot of evidence that wealth causes unhappiness. Why, then, do people still spend so much time and effort on getting richer, even when they already have far more than they could ever need?

Various theories have been suggested. To be honest, though, I am still unsure. Personally, I can't understand why anyone would need to buy another luxury car when they already have three or four. How many homes can you live in at any one time? The only explanation I can come up with is that it is a kind of addiction: When your life has been all about making money, that becomes your purpose, the reason you get up in the morning.

	Reading and Comprehension (P4-P 85/59)
الدورة الثانية 8/ 2022	1 On its own, money has little or no meaning. It only gains meaning when a group of people all accept that it has a certain value when used for the exchange of goods or services. To understand this, we need to look at what happened before money was invented. 2 In early societies, trade was carried out by bartering: the exchange of one thing or service for another. If one person had a bag of salt and another was good at making shoes, they could agree to exchange the salt for a pair of shoes. But this only worked on two conditions. Firstly, they each had to want what the other person was offering, and secondly they had to agree that the two things were of equal value. 3 To solve this problem, people started to base their trade on items that nearly everyone wanted, like salt, chocolate or cows. It didn't have to be something that they needed, just something desirable. Cowrie shells are a well-known example of this, and a step towards what we recognise as money, because they are easier to carry around than cows or bags of salt. 4 The Lydians, who lived in what is now Turkey, are thought to be the first people to use coins, over 2,500 years ago, although pieces of metal had been used for centuries before. Other countries soon followed , making their coins with agreed values. The earliest paper money was probably in common use in China around the year 960. 5 In this form, money itself doesn't need to be made of something valuable; it is only important because of what it represents, or stands for. This is why it is known as representative money. Until quite recently, for example, the British pound (£) was based on a promise that the bank would exchange it for one pound in weight (lb) of silver. 6 Nowadays, methods of exchange are moving away from real coins and notes that need to be carried around. First, there were cheques, which have now been more or less replaced by plastic credit or debit cards. More recent developments have moved even further in this direction. One example is 'contactless' bracelets that you wear on your wrist and pass in front of a machine. Another is the growing popularity of 'bitcoins', a digital currency that can only be used on the Internet.

A: Match each paragraph with the right title:

1. The beginning of money as we know it
2. Towards unreality
3. No value in the material
4. What is money
5. Different examples of 'money'
6. Before money

Unit Six

Past History?

Read the following text, then answer the questions below:

After the 1948 disaster, over 700,000 Palestinians lost everything and were forced into a Diaspora that spread round the planet. For many years afterwards, the Palestinian cause received little attention or understanding from the world.

That changed dramatically in 1974, when the late national leader, President Yassir Arafat, stepped onto the world's political stage to speak to the United Nations. His famous words rang out: 'Today, I have come bearing an olive branch and a freedom fighter's gun. Do not let the olive branch fall from my hand.'

This landmark speech showed the world two things: first that the Palestinian cause could not be forgotten, and secondly that there really could be a peaceful way forward. Arafat's words also affected Palestinians deeply. They made many realise that it was necessary to build bridges between Palestine and the West. This was the way to create international understanding and, one day, a free and independent Palestine.

The years since the national leader President Arafat's speech to the UN have not been easy, and there have been many setbacks. Yet there are also reasons for optimism. In recent years, as a result of the continuous diplomatic struggle of the present Palestinian leadership, under their representative President Mahmoud Abbas, more and more countries have officially recognised Palestine as an independent state, and in 2012 the United Nations General Assembly voted to upgrade the status of the Palestinians to that of a 'non-member observer state'. There is hope that at last, thanks to the efforts of Palestinians around the world, the tide has finally turned.

A :Decide whether each of the following is True or False:

1. The Palestinian cause received little attention from the world after 1974. ()
2. The late president Arafat's words offered the world the two choices of peace and war. ()
3. Recently, the Palestinians status has been upgraded to that of a member observer state. ()

B. Answer the questions:

1. What did Arafat's speech show the world?
 - a. _____
 - b. _____
2. What important lesson did the Palestinians get from Arafat's speech?

3. What is the outcome of the continuous political effort of the current Palestinian leadership?
 - a. _____
 - b. _____

C. Write what the following dates refer to:

1. 1948 (line 1): _____
2. 1974 (line 4): _____

D . Choose the correct answer:

1. The late national leader means _____ .
 - a. no longer living
 - b. arriving after the expected time
2. "This landmark speech" The meaning of landmark is _____ .
 - a. literal
 - b. figurative

Reading and Comprehension (U6-P4-P90/91)

Not
IncludedRead the following text, then answer the questions below:

Along with President Arafat, other prominent representatives of this Palestinian generation in exile played a vital role in bringing the cause to the world's attention. One of these was the great writer and academic Edward Said, originally from Jerusalem, who fought with all the strength of his great mind for freedom, equality and justice in general, and for the future of Palestine in particular. On his death, the poet Mahmoud Darwish, himself an important and well-known international figure, wrote: 'I cannot say goodbye to Edward Said, so present is he among and within us, and so alive around the world.'

Another great Palestinian intellectual was Hisham Sharabi (1927–2005), originally from Jaffa, and later an important professor at Georgetown University near Washington. Like Said and other Palestinians, he worked all his life to improve western understanding of Arab and Palestinian issues. He was editor of the Journal of Palestine Studies, and wrote many books, including his famous Introduction to the Study of Arab Society (1975). He also became well known for his television appearances and his journalism, as well as creating the Arab-American Cultural Foundation, which builds American understanding of Arab and Islamic culture, and setting up the Jerusalem Fund, a foundation that provides scholarships for students from Palestine.

Sharabi wrote about his 'bitterness and anger' when, in 1993, he returned to Jaffa, his home town, to make a documentary: 'As I stood there, I could hear people speaking Russian, probably recent immigrants from the old Soviet Union. They were full citizens in my country, and I was there only on a limited Israeli tourist visa.' However, he went on to say that the only way forward was a political compromise founded on justice and international law and UN Security Council resolutions. For him, this compromise had to include the Right of Return.

Sadly, none of these great Palestinians lived to see the end of the Diaspora. They did, however, inspire a new generation to follow in their footsteps. Motivated by love of country and highly educated, they have risen, often from poor beginnings to importance and success across the arts and sciences. Today, they continue to build bridges of understanding that will one day carry the Palestinian nation home.

A : Answer the following questions:

1. What important ideas did Edward Said fight for through his writing?

2. Mention two foundations that Sharabi set up?

a. _____

b. _____

3. What upset Sharabi when he returned to his home town?

4. Why did Sharabi return back to Jaffa?

5. What was the issue on which Sharabi refused to compromise?

6. Say what non-academic work Hisham Sharabi did to help the Palestinian cause.

5. I (line 18) : _____

D. What the underlined dates in the text, refer to:

1. 1927 (line 8) : _____

2. 2005 (line 8) : _____

3. 1975 (line 12) : _____

4. 1993 (line 17) : _____

E. Choose the correct answer:

1. Said worked as a writer and _____
a. poet b. academic c. vocational
2. Darwish was a famous _____
a. poet b. academic c. vocational
3. He couldn't say goodbye, because _____
a. Said would always be a part of their daily life and thought.
b. he hated him
c. they have some misunderstanding between them.

F. Complete the following statements from the text:

1. Said is originally from _____
2. Hisham Sharabi originally came from _____
